

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for matching clinical trials to qualified individuals in which the criteria for a plurality of clinical trials are stored, where each clinical trial describes a course of treatment for a particular illness or disease. Information is obtained from a user to determine whether the user is qualified for one or more of the clinical trials. The clinical trials for which the user qualifies is then presented to the user.

5